

OTA PULCHRA ES

1 Tota pulchra es, O Maria ! tota pulchra es, Et macula non est in te
Quam speciosa, quam suavis in deliciis, Conceptio illibata
Veni, veni de Libano! Veni, veni de Libano! Veni, veni coronaberis!
2 Tu progredieris ut aurora, valde rutilans, Affers gaudia salutis
Per te ortus est Christus Deus, sol justitiae, O fulgida porta lucis
Veni, veni de Libano! Veni, veni de Libano! Veni, veni coronaberis!
3 Sicut lilium inter spinas, inter filias, Sic tu virgo benedicta
Tuum refulget vestimentum, ut nix candidum, Sicut sol facies tua
Veni, veni de Libano! Veni, veni de Libano! Veni, veni coronaberis!
4 In te spes vitae et virtutis, omnis gratia, Et viae et veritatis
Post te curremus in odorem suavissimum, Trahentium unguentorum
Veni, veni de Libano! Veni, veni de Libano! Veni, veni coronaberis!

1 All fair art thou, O Mary ! all fair art thou, And stain does not exist in thee
How lovely, how sweet in its delights, Thy conception unstained
Come, come from Lebannon! Come, come from Lebannon! Come, come, thou shalt be crowned!
2 Thou goest forth like the dawn exceedingly rose-colored, Thou bringest the joys of salvation
Through thee risen is Christ our God, the sun of justice, O gleaming portal of light
Come, come from Lebannon! Come, come from Lebannon! Come, come, thou shalt be crowned!
3 Like a lily amidst brambles, among the daughters, So are thou, O Virgin blest
Thy shining raiment like snow is white, Even as the sun is the face of thee
Come, come from Lebannon! Come, come from Lebannon! Come, come, thou shalt be crowned!
4 In thee is hope of life and virtue, all the grace, Both of our way and of the truth
After thee we shall run unto the fragrance most sweet, Of thy attractive ointments
Come, come from Lebannon! Come, come from Lebannon! Come, come, thou shalt be crowned!
